

Growth Soars at Bell Media Group with Addition of Hollywood Director

Los Angeles, CA, May 02, 2006 --(PR.com)-- Bell Media Group (BMG) is pleased to announce the addition of Jesse Russell Brooks to their client roster. BMG is a media research and public relations agency with offices based in the Boston area.

Brooks a Director, Producer and Visual Media Artists has worked in Television, Theater, Film and Music Video. He directed the two time Emmy nominated television show, "Lost Legends of the West" and also received over 11 awards for his work in connection with the music video "ILLCOM: The Uprising." Brooks has been attached to theatrical productions such as Walt Disney's "The Lion King" and "Hedwig and the Angry Inch." Most recently, he worked with William Hurt on the Los Angeles production of "Hamlet" where he was the chief visual artist.

In 2005, recognition came in the form of a Telly Award for outstanding video and film production. Winners and Finalists represent the best work of the most respected advertising agencies, production companies, television stations, cable operators, and corporate video departments in the world. With a 26-year history of recognizing creative excellence, the Telly Awards is a widely known and highly respected international competition.

Spokesman for BMG, Jeffrey Matthews said, "We are excited to be working with someone of his caliber. His background is extensive as he has the industry experience."

Brooks has a full schedule of upcoming projects. He is producing, directing and has a co-written a television pilot which is set to go into pre-production shortly.

###

Contact Information:

Jonathan Bell Media Group

Jonathan Bell

603-978-1200

Contact via Email

Online Version of Press Release:

You can read the online version of this press release at: <http://www.pr.com/press-release/10155>