

IP Camera Supply Adds Axis 209 Series of IP Cameras

Addition of Axis 209 Series of IP Cameras Furthers Company's Discrete Surveillance Offerings

Buffalo, NY, August 28, 2008 --(PR.com)-- IP Camera Supply, LLC (www.ipcamerasupply.com), a division of Sayers Technology Holdings and a leading IP Surveillance solution provider, has added the Axis 209 series of IP cameras to its product catalog. The Axis 209 series of IP cameras, which includes the Axis 209FD, the Axis 209MFD, the Axis 209FD-R and the Axis 209MFD-R are designed for discreet indoor video surveillance thanks to their compact, non-invasive design. The addition of the Axis 209 series of IP cameras to IP Camera Supply's product catalog is the latest in a string of indoor IP surveillance products that have been added to the company's product catalog in recent months.

“We are very excited about the addition of the Axis 209 series to our product line,” said Garrett Smith, Director of Marketing and Business Development. “As the leader in IP surveillance, Axis is very well known across the world for their quality, performance and commitment to furthering the IP surveillance industry. Over the last six months we have seen a growing demand for IP based discreet indoor surveillance products in the marketplace and with the addition of the Axis 209 series of indoor IP cameras IP Camera Supply now has the right solution to effectively meet this growing demand.”

The Axis 209 series of fixed dome cameras come in both VGA (209FD, 209FD-R) and Megapixel (209MFD, 209MFD-R) resolutions, with the Axis 209FD-R and 209MFD-R offering a more rugged design to meet the needs of the most demanding environments. The Axis 209 series of IP cameras range from $599.99 to $699.99.
