

BlasterPhone Signs Partnership Agreement with CruiseJobLine.com

CruiseJobLine.com crewmembers will call home using BlasterPhone's Internet Telecommunications Services.

Sao Paulo, Brazil, October 04, 2008 --(PR.com)-- BlasterPhone - leading provider of feature-rich, high-quality Internet Telephony services and solutions, and CruiseJobLine.com - cruise ship employment agency with offices in North and South America have signed partnership agreement. BlasterPhone will provide crewmembers with variety of calling options onboard cruise ships spinning the globe.

Phone calls originated from a cruise ship are normally extremely expensive - that includes both cellular calls with roaming and calls from a phone provided by the cruise line. BlasterPhone, through its partnership with CruyiseJobLine.com offers crewmembers inexpensive and convenient calling options.

Using broadband Internet via Wi-Fi hot spots, Cyber Cafes, or stateroom access crewmembers can now connect to BlasterPhone's next generation network and make low-cost calls to landline and mobile phones worldwide. In addition, crewmembers residing on different ships can call each other free of charge.

“By using the Wi-Fi Internet Access available onboard crewmembers can connect to our servers online and make cheap Internet calls. A good example would be Nokia N95 8GB configured with BlasterPhone SIP account. Call costs could go down hundred times or more and calls between BlasterPhone users are completely free of charge,” comments Ben Popov, COO of BlasterPhone LLC. “We also offer WAP Callback and Softphone calling options so crewmembers can always connect one way or another depending on the cruise ship telecommunications infra-structure.”

“Our crewmembers are very excited about the partnership with BlasterPhone and we are looking forward to making the service available onboard all cruise ships within our network. Calls from a cruise ship could cost as much as US$ 10 per minute from a room phone and US$ 5 per minute or more from a cell phone! It will all change now,” says Katia Castro, CEO of CruiseJobLine.com. “Cyber Cafes and Internet via Wi-Fi is available on all ships we work with so our crewmembers will have good access to BlasterPhone's phone services.”
