

dealnews.com Makes PC World's Top 100 of 2006

dealnews.com chosen #24 in PC World Magazine's annual list of best products and services.

Huntsville, AL, June 01, 2006 --(PR.com)-- dealnews.com, Inc., a leader in tracking online bargains, is ranked #24 in the just-released PC World 100 Best Products of 2006 list. The annual list is now available at pcworld.com and will be published in the July 2006 issue of PC World Magazine. The list features the finest products and services of the past 12 months, as rated by PC World's editors.

“We are thrilled to be included in this year's list, especially being ranked so highly,” said Daniel de Grandpre, CEO of dealnews. “Our team at dealnews.com works exhaustively to research and publish the very best deals in online shopping from reputable merchants. It's very gratifying to know that the work we do is considered to be among the top 100 in the industry.”

PC World's Annual List rates each candidate on its design, performance, and specifications. This year's list of “World Class” winners contains a wide range of products and services for work, home, and everywhere in between. The honorees were selected after editors reviewed hundreds of products and services, including those that have appeared in PC World Magazine over the last year.

At #24, dealnews ranks ahead of products and services such as TiVo®, Apple iTunes®, and Flickr®. With the exception of Google, dealnews is the only product or service related to online shopping in the Top 100.

In its review of dealnews, PC World singled out dealnews' unique emphasis on comparing deals from today with deals from the past. Such information helps prospective shoppers understand just how good a deal is.
