

Network Marketing Business School Announces $75,000 Giveaway to Assist Everyday Network Marketers

Troy Rocavert, CEO of Network Marketing Business School announced today that over the next 12 months Network Marketing Business School will be giving away $75,000 dollars worth of online advertising space to assist everyday networkers to help promote their network marketing business.

Sydney, Australia, November 26, 2008 --(PR.com)-- Network Marketing Business School has today launched 2 online network marketing competitions to assist anyone in the network marketing industry that is looking to gain online exposure for their business.

These competitions have been created in response to a recent online network marketing survey that highlighted the 2 most important things network marketers needed to help establish their business was credibility and exposure.

Network Marketing Business School will be running 2 competitions concurrently over the next 12 months, with 24 prizes to giveaway and a total prize package worth $75,000. Each prize is designed to assist everyday network marketers gain credibility and exposure for their business.

“We are very excited to launch these competitions and continue to support everyday network marketers by helping them to promote themselves and the industry.” Troy Rocavert

The internet has become an integral part of the network marketing industry and with the right exposure network marketers can use the internet to help promote their products or business model.

Since the official launch of the online Network Marketing Business School resource in September 2008, the team have already had to completely upgrade their website to accommodate the increasing demand for their free online services.

Network Marketing Business School has launched these competitions to help promote their recent website upgrade which now has a new look and feel, and is easier for visitors to navigate.

Whilst the online resource is relatively new to the industry, CEO Troy Rocavert is confident that it won't be long before Network Marketing Business School is recognised as the “best network marketing website on the internet.”
