

All My Sons Moving and Storage Partners with Build-A-Bear Workshop to Bring Furry Hugs to Local Children's Hospital

All My Sons Moving and Storage excitedly opens the doors of its trucks, but this time it's not to fill them with furniture. All My Sons has partnered with Build-A-Bear Workshop to support their Stuffed with Hugs program which donates stuffed animals to the local charities. All My Sons was eager to collaborate with a company so dedicated to creating happiness in the community.

Indianapolis, IN, January 29, 2009 --(PR.com)-- On Stuffed with Hugs day, guests are invited to visit any Build-A-Bear Workshop store in the world and make a special furry friend at no charge. The animals created are given back to Build-A-Bear Workshop so they can be donated to worthy causes. All My Sons happily picks up the furry friends and delivers them to their final destination.

“All My Sons Moving and Storage was founded on strong principals and we aim to be an active member of the Indianapolis community. We're proud to help Build-A-Bear Workshop transport their stuffed animals and put a smile on a child's face” said Christopher Lambert, President of the Indianapolis All My Sons location.

As an international cause initiative, this program has helped children around the world by providing furry friend hugs. Since the program began, Build-A-Bear has donated to children's hospitals, firefighters, police officers, the USO, UNICEF, Ronald McDonald House charities, and other child centric organizations. Build-A-Bear Workshop also conducts Stuffed with Hugs events in response to natural disasters such as hurricanes and floods to bring children in need of a hug some comfort.
