International Distillers Grains Conference & Trade Show Agenda Takes Shape; Online Registration Open.

Minneapolis, MN, July 06, 2006 --(PR.com)-- BBI International, publisher of Distillers Grains Quarterly and Ethanol Producer Magazine—and host of the International Fuel Ethanol Workshop & Expo—has announced that the block agenda for the upcoming International Distillers Grains Conference & Trade Show (IDGC) is complete and online registration is open. The event is being held at the Hyatt Regency in downtown Minneapolis Sept. 12-14, 2006.

Themed “Educating and Empowering End Users,” the IDGC is focused on the priorities of the companies that produce and market distillers grains, as well as those that buy and use the coproduct—primarily feed ingredient manufacturers along with livestock and poultry producers.

The IDGC is exclusively focused on industry issues related to distillers grains produced at dry mill ethanol plants. The conference will feature an ideal lineup of engaging general session speakers and category-specific breakout seminars. The IDGC will provide excellent opportunities for end users, producers, marketers, animal health professionals, researchers and service providers to network and build valuable new relationships in a booming feed ingredient business.

Conference Session Topics Include:

- “Boundless Potential: Exploring the Future of Distillers Grains”
- “The Feeding Frontier: Understanding New Era Recommendations”
- “Consensus Building: Definitions & Analytical Measurement Standardization”
- “Tailor Made: Innovation Brings Coproduct Customization”
