

Seth Kahan Collaborates with Marshall Brown to Build a Community of Entrepreneurs in Washington, DC

Innovative leadership specialist and executive strategy consultant, Seth Kahan, has announced his collaboration with Coach, and Personal Brand Strategist Marshall Brown, to build a community of Entrepreneurs in Washington, DC.

Bethesda, MD, March 21, 2010 --(PR.com)-- Kahan and Brown have 16 years of personal and professional coaching experience between them. They have begun offering entrepreneurs in the Washington DC metro area free bi-monthly meetings including general discussions and forums and paid personalised coaching and mentoring programs.

Seth Kahan comments, “My Private Roster™ Mentor Program helps consultants succeed. I provide both strategic and tactical advice, from educating them on how to position and market their practice to creating a detailed game plan with specific completion dates. Marshall and I have joined forces to provide a powerful combination of services to help local consultants, coaches, and small business owners launch their practices into the stratosphere!”

Kahan authors FreelanceFortune.com, an exceedingly popular blog that provides independent consultants and free agents with daily marketing advice. He has been identified as a Thought-leader and Exemplar in Change Leadership by the Society for Advancement of Consulting® and designated a member of the Million Dollar Consultant® Hall of Fame.

Marshall Brown, states, “In my Entrepreneur Mastery Success Program, entrepreneurs are connected with other like minded free agents who are focused on similar goals. We work on constructive feedback, help brainstorm new possibilities and set up accountability structures that keep the entrepreneur focused.”
