

topseos.com Invites Internet Marketing Firms to Share Success Stories for Its Print Magazine “Visibility”

Plymouth, IN, February 22, 2007 --(PR.com)-- “Visibility,” a print magazine about the internet marketing industry, from topsaos.com is a much-awaited project. And the anticipation surrounding this “first of its kind” magazine is now greater than before. topsaos.com has announced a way that will allow the magazine to have, what Managing Editor Bill Peden called, “a bird's eye view—without missing out on the details.”

topseos.com has invited leading internet marketing firms to share their success stories through the magazine. Hopeful of receiving many such entries, topsaos.com plans on publishing as many as two in every edition of the magazine. This invitation is open to all internet marketing firms, and not just those that have been ranked by topseos.com.

“There are so many new players that enter the industry everyday. Success stories like this are inspiring, to say the very least. And companies that are leading the way today know how crucial this inspiration is, and the difference it can make,” Bill Peden said.

“Visibility” would be the first print magazine that exclusively deals with the internet marketing industry. These success stories would form be an important aspect of the magazine which will also feature stories on internet marketing methodologies and latest trends.

“Yet another purpose of these stories is to change the many perceptions about the industry and the work we do. There are ethics involved at every level, contrary to popular conception. The internet marketing industry is driven by an innate desire to assist users. These stories will tell you how,” Bill Peden added.
