

topseos.com Launches a New Initiative to Help Small Businesses Identify the Right Internet Marketing Vendors

Plymouth, IN, March 01, 2007 --(PR.com)-- "The internet marketing world is expanding at an inconceivable pace. We were looking at creating an opening that helps smaller businesses keep up with this pace."

That is how Bill Peden introduced the latest initiative from topseos.com. As the name suggests, the "Quick Launch" program will help newer, smaller businesses establish contacts. Those familiar with the workings of the internet marketing circuit, would know how difficult it is for small businesses to connect with internet marketing vendors.

With this new initiative, this burden would be handled by topseos.com which has proved beyond doubt its knowledge of the field. In addition to its knowledge on the field, topseos.com also has extensive knowledge about the various companies whom it has been ranking on its website on a monthly basis.

"Gaps between big and small, new and old will be sealed and being a small player will no longer mean taking longer to achieve targets. The task of identifying the perfect choice is also cumbersome. Over the past five years, we have built partnerships with companies big and small, and are familiar with the strengths of every big player."

Suffice to say, an association with topseos.com will make the process of connecting to vendors easier and faster. topseos.com will help identify companies that suit specific internet marketing needs. And this customized service will be offered for a fee of 599.00.
