Keller, TX, March 01, 2007 --(PR.com)-- Saffe Property & Casualty, LP and towPartners are pleased to announce that they have partnered to provide towPartners members with medical indemnity and health insurance services. Saffe Property & Casualty works with USNow and Pan-American Life to provide a valuable suite of health care cost savings options to towPartners members and even to individual employees of towPartners member companies. This expansion of benefits to any employee of a towPartners member company allows even those whose companies do not offer benefits to purchase a program for themselves or their families. Open enrollment is underway now and will remain open until June 30, 2007.

Dwight Dowell, Benefits Director of Saffe Property & Casualty said “We are proud to serve the towing and asset recovery industries and look forward to providing quality benefits programs to the families that support these industries each day,” referring to the program launch. “The towPartners program has a tremendous following and a strong membership base. Supporting a group such as towPartners who truly supports its industry was an ideal value proposition for our company.”

“Saffe Property & Casualty and its partners have agreed to bring quality health care options to our members at reasonable price points. We are proud to be a part of a program that can deliver such incredible value to our members, their employees and the families represented by the men and women working in our industry each day,” stated Jeffrey Godwin, Vice President of towPartners. “We continue to strive to be ‘for the industry’ in our business dealings and through the service providers we choose. It makes sense that we begin an effort to bring real benefits to the employees of member companies as a part of this effort.”
