Wilmington, DE, March 09, 2007 --(PR.com)-- NiteLites Outdoor Lighting of Delaware, the Landscape Lighting Professionals, will demonstrate their high quality architectural and landscape outdoor lighting products at the Greater Philadelphia Home Show. The show, scheduled for March 30 through April 1 will be held at the Valley Forge Convention Center, 1160 First Avenue, Valley Forge, PA 19406. Admission to the show is $9.00 for adults. Children under 16 are admitted free. The show is an event designed for homeowners in all stages of remodeling, landscaping, and decorating their homes. Experts will be available to demonstrate their products and answer any questions, and can provide the attendee with several ideas on enhancing their home and landscape.

While attending the show, stop at the NiteLites booth, and let Steve Levine and his staff share photos of their spectacular collection of homes and landscapes illuminated by a NiteLites outdoor lighting system. They will also provide practical ideas on extending the daylight hours for the living and entertainment space available.

NiteLites encourages homeowners to not allow the setting sun to mean the end of the day for the yard or home exterior. To make the under used areas of a property more inviting, and to add to the property's overall ambience, an excellent option is architecture and landscape lighting. NiteLites professionals can enhance any landscape by highlighting selected features of the property with an outdoor lighting system. The home owner can successfully expand their available living and entertainment areas well beyond sunset. When lit, decks and patios are an extension of the indoor living area. Colors and shapes in a garden come to life. Statues, ponds, and gazebos can become a focal point. In short, the addition of an outdoor lighting system maximizes the homeowner's living and entertainment space, and the time to use it.
