

Higgins, Hopkins, McLain & Roswell Celebrates Its 10 Year Anniversary

Denver based boutique law firm has been representing construction professionals throughout Colorado since 2001.

Denver, CO, October 01, 2011 --(PR.com)-- Higgins, Hopkins, McLain & Roswell, LLC, a boutique law firm dedicated to the construction industry, celebrates its ten year anniversary today. Founded in 2001, HHMR quickly emerged as one of Colorado's preeminent construction litigation firms. Since its inception, HHMR has focused on providing quality legal services to construction professionals and their insurers throughout a wide range of residential and commercial construction disputes. Proactively, HHMR also provides consulting services to many construction professionals who endeavor to minimize litigation exposure by employing informed and meaningful risk management strategies.

“Over the last ten years, we have seen no slow down in the amount of construction litigation in Colorado, and HHMR has remained at the forefront of defending Colorado's builders and contractors,” said David M. McLain, one of the founding members of the firm. Through evolving and often challenging economic and legislative times, HHMR remains committed to providing exceptional legal services. “We have celebrated growth and the acquisition of talented colleagues over the years.”

Founding member, Sheri Roswell, added, “I attribute our success to two things: First, we have exceptional and loyal clients who recognize the value in what we do. Second, the HHMR team has unparalleled energy and enthusiasm for serving our clients with tenacity, talent, and ethical advocacy, at the highest level.”
