At the ceremony recognizing the best small, mid-sized, and large companies to work for in the DFW Metroplex, Frontline Source Group was ranked “#1 Best Place to Work.”

Dallas, TX, May 09, 2007 --(PR.com)-- Frontline Source Group, (www.frontlinesourcegroup.com) a Dallas-based temporary staffing agency and direct hire firm, was named the “#1 Small Business” of the “Best Places to Work in Dallas” by the Dallas Business Journal (<http://dallas.bizjournals.com>) at a recognition luncheon on Thursday, May 3rd. At the ceremony recognizing the best small, mid-sized, and large companies to work for in the DFW Metroplex, Frontline Source Group was the top-ranked out of the twenty-three small businesses nominated and is featured in the Journal's “Best Places to Work” supplement.

In addition to being named the top-ranked small business to work for, Frontline Source Group was also the #1 business in the “Best of the Best” ranking, which looks only to company score, not size. Frontline scored a one hundred on the rankings, the highest possible score, which placed it at the very top of the “Best of the Best” listing. The company rankings were based in large part on employee surveys that determined engagement, or satisfaction, of employees, as well as on interviews with the company president, and additional company information. The Dallas Business Journal article featured Frontline perks such as company trips, staff incentives, and the overall entrepreneurial spirit of the company.

President Bill Kasko stressed what an honor it was to win the category in the first year the company was nominated and in his acceptance speech, Kasko stated that the award is “all about people” and praised his team at Frontline Source Group for making the award possible. Senior Recruiter Sherrie Dvorak agreed with Kasko, saying “Truly, it's the people that we have hired who have grown with the company that has made it the company that it is.”

Frontline has grown dramatically over the past few years, opening additional offices in Houston and Austin and hiring several staff members in the Dallas office. Taylor Neher-Hanna stressed how exciting it is to be a part of a company that is undergoing so much growth and said that even though she was recently hired, she “already feels at home,” an emotion found throughout the company. In the Journal's article, Kasko described the company as a “family” based on mutual respect and trust, which works together as a team.

Frontline was founded in 2004 and was first nominated for this award in 2007. Frontline Source Group is one of the fastest growing Information Technology, Accounting, Human Resource, Legal and Administrative temporary staffing agency and direct hire placement firms in Austin, Dallas, Fort Worth and Houston, Texas.
