

New Concept in Web Directories Allows Site Owners to Fully Control Link Placements

The Szab Network announces the launch of the company's seventh Web directory, www.DareDirectory.com, a directory that allows users to choose exactly where in the Web directory their listings will appear.

Philadelphia, PA, June 02, 2007 --(PR.com)-- The Szab Network has announced the launch of Dare Directory (www.DareDirectory.com), which offers a unique concept in Web directories allowing webmasters and site owners to have full control over the placement of their links within the Web directory. Dare Directory differentiates itself from bidding directories, also sorting links by price paid, by ensuring that customers can never be outbid for their positions. Each link position has an assigned value, and is only sold once.

Permanent, one-way links are important in search engine optimization efforts for webmasters, online business owners, and Internet marketers. "Dare Directory offers a way to build affordable permanent links, including five deep links, with prices ranging from $1.00 - 40.00, and free listings available on page five of each category," says founder Samsul Zamzuri. "Modeled after our Fifty Pages Website, Dare Directory features five pages of ten links in each category."

To further maximize the benefit of backlinks from Dare Directory, the Web directory will feature ten regular links per page in all categories in an effort to limit the number of outgoing links, which preserves the Google pagerank value assigned to each one. All submissions are manually approved, and all regular links are permanent. To offer even greater benefits to those interested in Web directory submissions for SEO purposes, Dare Directory provides SEO tools including a backlink checker, pagerank checker, keyword density checker, keyword suggestion tool, and more directly on-site.

Dare Directory was the first Web directory allowing webmasters to directly choose the position of their links from a series of five pages in each directory category. Unlike bidding directories, Dare Directory links are permanent, and each link position is only sold once with a previously-assigned link value. The directory was launched by the Szab Network on May 23, 2007, as the company's seventh Web directory. The site also offers free search engine optimization tools and free Web directory templates.
