Stratham, NH, July 06, 2007 --(PR.com)-- Incontinence happens. Incontinence is an "age old" issue no longer considered as just an "old age" problem. Disposables Delivered LLC, www.disposablesdelivered.com offers innovative solutions to meet the changing demands of today's continence challenged population.

Advancements in medical care and a growing population of baby boomers have contributed to an increased need for incontinence products and interventions. Once associated with frail elders in nursing homes, today's incontinent population has a more active lifestyle.

Shopping for incontinence products at the grocery store, local chain pharmacy or warehouse clubs is confusing, cumbersome and potentially embarrassing. Improved on-line security, internet anonymity, rising gas prices, over extended family schedules and convenience have brought on-line shopping to unprecedented use.

Strict insurance rules and shortened rehabilitation stays have resulted in many with temporary incontinence challenges returning home with new needs. Readily available family support is scarcer than in the past. Each day, a greater number of people seek the benefits of assisted living and independent living communities and use supportive services of home care agencies. Disposables Delivered meets these challenges by delivering discreetly packaged incontinence supplies to the individual's home.

How does one choose the correct incontinence products when there are hundreds of brands, styles, sizes and absorbencies available? Trial and error is not an acceptable method for choosing the correct product. With expert product and incontinence knowledge, Disposables Delivered has developed the exclusive Product Genie, a simple, interactive on-line tool which recommends specific products to meet the unique needs of each individual.
