In a 12-months period, we re-designed our site based on vacation home owners' input, optimized every page for better search engine accessibility, improved ratings and increased trust among users.”

Vacation rentals is a new, but rapidly growing travel market which relies on staying in touch with owners, understanding the needs of renters and offering great customer support. VacationRentalsListed analyzes what renters are looking for, how they find the rental companies, and why they leave. “We need to know if renters spend enough time before they go to next site. How many properties they are looking for before they make an inquiry?” Mrs. Klimov explains.
