

WWE Smackdown vs RAW 2008 Exclusive in Free PSP and DS Gamers Magazine

Latest issue of HGZine features exclusive screens, preview and interview for new version of Smackdown vs RAW. Free digital magazine also includes God of War for PSP preview, Zelda: Phantom Hourglass review and more.

London, United Kingdom, August 17, 2007 --(PR.com)-- Continuing to build its reputation as the leading free magazine for handheld gamers, issue 7 of HGZine from GamerZines includes a massive cover feature on WWE Smackdown vs RAW 2008 with world exclusive in-game screens and a developer interview.

“HGZine, like our other free videogames magazines, goes from strength to strength,” says Dave Taylor, Publishing Director. “Issue 7 is a fantastic example of this. It brings on board a new and talented editor, Dean Mortlock. Dean has years of videogames journalistic experience, and he has put together a brilliant issue full of exclusives and probably our best collection yet of interactive screens and video. This makes HGZine probably the most immersive media experience out there for gamers looking for information, and best of all, of course, it's completely free.”

The issue also includes God of War: Chains of Olympus First Look complete with video, Syphon Filter: Logan's Shadow preview, Contra 4, Castlevania Dracula X Chronicles, Zelda: Phantom Hourglass review and many more. It's the biggest issue yet for HGZine.

HGZine is a GamerZine for PSP and DS gamers, published for free in PDF format. Readers simply require a copy of the free Adobe Reader (version 6 or above) to read the magazines. Each GamerZine includes more than 40 pages of professionally written games journalism and is enhanced with embedded video, multimedia and interactive elements.
