

TrackJump Package Tracking URL Service

TrackJump is a new service built by Erik Aronesty which allows users to create shortened tracking URL's suitable for embedding in emails or web pages.

Durham, NC, September 29, 2007 --(PR.com)-- TrackJump is a new service built by Erik Aronesty which allows users to create shortened tracking URL's suitable for embedding in emails or web pages.

"Simplified logistics software such as TrackJump appeals to the widening base of small business online retailers who cannot afford enterprise software"

TrackJump supports the creation of simplified tracking urls for UPS, USPS, DHL, FedEx, EMS and a dozens of other package carriers. Support for all global carriers is planned.

The TrackJump service does not place advertising or otherwise seek to monetize traffic from these links.

"I'm not looking to make money off free users. The company will offer various paid and professional services to those who wish to pay," says CEO, Erik Aronesty.

Erik Aronesty is the developer of a broad range of online utilities, from open source languages to utilities like LocatePage and TrackJump. He is currently the owner and operator of Moon Costumes, an online Halloween costume store.
