Houston, TX, October 19, 2007 --(PR.com)-- developer sales group, llc (dsg) a leading provider of luxury sales, marketing & leasing services for the real estate industry announced an expansion into property management in Houston, Texas.

dsg's property management services will include long and short term corporate rental management, traditional leasing and management of residential condominium units.

The property management division consists of industry professionals who are experts in bringing a return on a client's investment, adding value to your real estate, and ultimately increasing your cash flow and equity.

“The Houston market has remained steadfast in light of industry woes and continues to grow as a major hub for real estate sales and investments and rentals” said Michael Internoscia, principal broker of developer sales group, llc. “Our property management division will be dedicated to maximizing our client's investments for long term gains by maximizing rents in Class A properties we are involved in.”

The demand for corporate rentals has increased two fold in recent years due to the energy industry exploding and continued growth of the Houston Medical Center. These corporate turn- key rentals have the ability to demand higher than average rental rates due to the “instead of a hotel” convenience and superior amenities.

dsg will primarily focus efforts on evaluating qualified prospects for rental listings during the final phases of construction on new projects. Traditional media, networking with local companies in addition to internet marketing will be utilized to produce heavy traffic flow.
