

ComputerTraining.com Releases First Company DVD

Hunt Valley, MD, January 10, 2008 --(PR.com)-- ComputerTraining.com's IT and Design departments announced the redesign of the company public web site and the release of their first company DVD. The purpose of this DVD is to not only offer a high-end visual marketing tool - but also provide everyone from employee to prospective student with the dynamic, tangible message of who they are and what they do. In addition, they have completely redesigned the ComputerTraining.com web site from the ground up to match the look and feel of their new branding. Their goal as always is to create consistency of tone, quality and message in everything they do - and they felt the company site had to be recreated to reflect that. They were thrilled with the success of the site launch.

###

Contact Information:

ComputerTraining.com

Harry Dunn

800-733-5641

harry.dunn@computertraining.com

www.computertraining.com

Online Version of Press Release:

You can read the online version of this press release at: <http://www.pr.com/press-release/67296>