

Pins.com Launches a New Service to Help Visitors Find the Best Custom Lapel Manufacturer

Pins.com, the web authority on lapel pins and collector's pins, now has added a service to help visitors interested in making their own custom lapel pins find the best manufacturer for their project.

Miami, FL, January 29, 2008 --(PR.com)-- Pins.com is offering a new service to help their visitors find the right manufacturers for their custom lapel pins. They have recently launched www.lapel.pins.com to help explain the different pin production methods and which pin best fits a client's budget, and by filling out their order form, they will send your request to the top lapel pin manufacturers and have them compete for your business.

This new service is complete free and they assure their clients they will get the best prices and the best quality by working with their pre-selected list of manufacturers.

Pins.com also offers information on Olympic pins, Disney pins, Pin Trading events and much more... Plus check out the pins collector's forum and chat with other pin collectors from around the world.
