

One of the Nation's Largest Real Estate Investing Summits Kicks into High Gear

Leap into Prosperity, boasting one of the largest educational line-ups for real estate investors in 2008 has rolled out the schedule of events and it includes over 40 hours of real estate education.

Atlanta, GA, February 07, 2008 --(PR.com)-- 2008 may be one of the scariest years for people holding real estate. For those considering investing in real estate the time might not be any better. But it is a tough market and the land mines are many for the novice real estate investor. Leap into Prosperity was developed and positioned to provide real world real estate investing education that is relevant for today's real estate investing market.

Leap into Prosperity is a 4 day intensive training workshop created by some of the biggest names in real world real estate investing education. Not only will some of the nation's top trainers be appearing but many industry experts as well. There will be 20 speakers jammed into 4 days and 40 hours of real estate investing training.

“This is unlike any other training event of its size in the country. Not only do we have speakers on stage sharing immense amounts of information to help real estate investors get started today but these experts are accessible. We have evening round table discussions where you can sit in a small group and pick their brains.” According to co-creator Judson Voss.

Andy Heller put it this way, “We are bringing in every member of our team that have helped us and continue to help us invest in real estate. This is years of knowledge and thousands of dollars of otherwise billable hours under one roof for one weekend.”

Judson and Lynn Voss of Get Real, The Real Estate Investing Show for the Rest of Us and Andy Heller, national expert on lease-options and purchasing bank owned properties have teamed up to develop this 4 day intensive real estate investor's education summit.
