

Jeff Benton Homes Attends International Builders' Show

Jeff Benton Homes is focused on the leading edge of home design and construction. The International Builders Show provides management and sales teams a terrific opportunity to see the very latest in building products, services and technologies.

Huntsville, AL, March 17, 2008 --(PR.com)-- Jeff Benton Homes' management and sales teams recently traveled to the National Association of Home Builders (NAHB) International Builders' Show in Orlando, Florida. The show featured nearly 2,000 exhibitors and covered more than one million square feet of exhibit space in the Orange County Convention Center.

“We're focused on keeping Jeff Benton Homes on the leading edge of homebuilding,” said President Jeff Benton. “The International Builders Show gave our management and sales teams a terrific opportunity to see the very latest in building products, services and technologies.”

The show also marked the official launch of the NAHB National Green Building Program and its Certified Green Professional designation. Jeff Benton Homes has long been committed to protecting the environment. In fact, Huntsville's Flint River Conservation Association honored Jeff Benton Homes with its first-ever River Guardian Award.
