

Voices.com Launches the Spring '08 Release with New Features, Benefits and Pricing

The leading voice over marketplace has come full circle with fulfilled promises for their Spring '08 Release.

Toronto, Canada, April 01, 2008 --(PR.com)-- Voices.com first announced changes in mid February 2008 in anticipation of their quarterly release and hasn't looked back since. Now the end of March and going into April, the web service is ready to officially roll out changes that were heralded weeks before, including significant changes to website usability, more resources for their customers, fresh graphical branding and a rate increase for voice actor subscriptions.

After compiling responses from website usability surveys and client satisfaction surveys, the team at Voices.com developed a plan to further improve upon their service offerings and engineered an aggressive strategy and vision that will propel the voice over industry for the coming year. Since implementing many customer ideas and recent feedback, the marketplace has experienced a surge in growth and continues to assert itself as the de facto voice talent solution for companies, organizations and agencies around the world.

Voices.com CEO, David Ciccarelli, says, "Since making these critical changes, we've seen amazing results including a booming marketplace, more, higher paying jobs, and a new look and feel."
