

RealtyJuggler Desktop Real Estate Software Awarded CRS Quality Tested Product Seal

Windsor, CO, April 11, 2008 --(PR.com)-- Today the Council of Residential Specialists (CRS) announced that RealtyJuggler Desktop Real Estate Software has been awarded the coveted Quality Tested Product Seal.

To be awarded this seal, software applications must pass a rigorous three-part review conducted by an independent technical advisor, the Council's Product Review Panel, and the Council's select Product Review Committee. Only after the application is determined to be at the highest levels of accuracy and user-friendliness, using the most current technology, and displaying a superior quality of output, completeness of documentation, and exemplary technical support, is it awarded the Council's Quality Tested Seal.

"We pride ourselves on creating the most user-friendly real estate software out there. So, being awarded this seal is a wonderful validation to us, and our customers. The CRS Quality Tested Seal is awarded to only a handful of products each year, so to be singled out is especially gratifying." Stated Scott Schmitz, President of RealOrganized, Inc. the publisher of RealtyJuggler.
