

YouReveal.com, the First Multimedia Portal for Revealing Secrets and Confessions Anonymously, Launched by Reeveka, LLC

Imagine being able to share a secret you've never told anyone and find out if it's really as shocking as you might think? Or share your fantasy and find out if it's really a common one? That's what the new website, YouReveal.com is designed to do.

Fort Lauderdale, FL, April 17, 2008 --(PR.com)-- Reeveka, LLC today announced the launch of YouReveal.com (www.youreveal.com), the first multimedia portal for revealing secrets and confessions anonymously. YouReveal.com is a free, novel social networking community where members can reveal their secrets and confessions with postings, videos and pictures. In addition, members can join or create various groups, start a discussion in the forum, ask for advice or give advice.

Members can connect with other members though internal messaging or through the groups or forums based on age, gender and location, which appear with postings and on member profiles. By sharing this information, YouReveal.com fosters a community where members can connect based on social demographics and help each other in their growth and healing.

YouReveal.com distinguishes itself from other online confession sites by being the first to allow members to reveal their secrets anonymously through posts, images and videos.

Social networking websites are inherently public, which limits the amount of information members can comfortably reveal. However, by posting anonymously, YouReveal.com members benefit from the support of other members without fear of embarrassment or retribution. As members begin to reveal more of themselves, they learn that they are not alone. Participating in a supportive, like-minded community promotes healing and well-being.
