

Bynari Wins Innovation Prize

Dallas, TX, April 17, 2008 --(PR.com)-- Bynari, Inc., a leading developer of messaging and collaboration software, today announced that they won the Innovation prize 2008 for the SMB market given by Huber Verlag für Neue Medien GmbH in Germany. 1600 companies participated in the competition, and the judges were made up of several professors from Institutions and Universities.

After 2 months of testing by the judges, Bynari won in one of 33 country categories - Schleswig Holstein. Bynari's product, Insight Server was selected, and Bynari won a marketing package of $3300 EUR.

Bynari's Insight Server is a Linux based email server that uses open standards to provide groupware features for any email clients: Outlook, Mozilla Sunbird, Evolution and others. Insight Server is a completely integrated email server with components that include anti-spam and anti-virus applications, backup software, migration tools, and much more.

“We are honored to have won such a prestige prize! It's wonderful to get recognized for working with SMB customers worldwide,” said Hyun Kim, President of Bynari.
