

Rocklin Announces Completion of Its New Sound Stage in Rocklin, CA

Rocklin, CA, April 22, 2008 --(PR.com)-- ATV Video - Rocklin Announces Completion of its new Sound Stage in Rocklin, CA.

ATV Video Technologies in Rocklin, CA announces completion of its second full service production studio.

Lights, Camera, Action. To meet the increasing needs for professional videos in the Sacramento area, ATV has a brand new fully equipped production studio. The new studio will meet the needs of ATV's commercial clients for producing professional videos for training, promotions, events, films, documentaries and commercials.

Laurie Pederson, the Executive Director of the Sacramento Film Arts Alliance says, "The Sacramento film industry is growing and your timing is perfect for additional services like these. I can't wait to check it out."

The new sound stage features state of the art lighting, cameras and audio equipment. In addition, the studio boasts a 16 foot high cyclorama, perfect for large scale productions and virtual studio setups. The production studio further extends ATV's 6500 sq ft video production facility which is comprised of two studios, two fully equipped nonlinear edit bays, a sound booth and duplication systems.

Bill Murphy, President of ATV says "Our goal at ATV is to create powerful connections with our customers, and we carry that philosophy into everything we do. With our new sound stage, we're excited that we can now offer our clients a large production studio location for larger projects such as infomercials, films commercials and much more. There isn't another place in the Sacramento area that offers this kind of service with the amount of new high end equipment we have, along with our staff of seasoned video production experts. "
