

Dark Reel Cast Greet Fango Fans

“Dark Reel” is a film within in film and on top of that, the pre-production is a story in itself. Take one privileged young man (Director, Josh Eisenstadt) from a well heeled suburb with dreams of directing. Add an ex-gang banger (Producer, David Forline) equipped with nothing more than bravado and chutzpah. Mix well and several months later – out pops a movie – and a really good one at that.

Tarzana, CA, April 24, 2008 --(PR.com)-- Is it Halloween in April? No, it's just Fangoria's Weekend of Horror at the L.A. Convention Center this weekend. The gorno-horror picture “Dark Reel” will have a booth there. So this is your opportunity to meet the talent and get an autograph or photo op.

Fangoria 's Weekend of Horrors is an annual event that boasts eerie exhibitors, vicious vendors, creepy costumes and more. Get your fill of gore and guts and check out Dark Reel at Booth 503.

“Dark Reel” is a film within in film and on top of that, the pre-production is a story in itself. Take one privileged young man (Director, Josh Eisenstadt) from a well heeled suburb with dreams of directing. Add an ex-gang banger (Producer, David Forline) equipped with nothing more than bravado and chutzpah. Mix well and several months later - out pops a movie - and a really good one at that.

This retro-style story combines horror, romance, a little humor, and surprise - a well-written plot and a recognizable cast. It's the story about the tragic death of a 50s starlet "Scarlett May" (Alexandra Holden). Fast forward to modern day, when real life Scream Queen, Tiffany Shepis, plays fictional Spotlight National Films Scream Queen, "Cassie Blue." Mix in a horror movie fan "Adam Waltz" (Edward Furlong) with a walk-on role and several deaths and dismemberments later, he's the prime suspect. But is he the “reel” killer?

This film also stars a bevy of beauties in addition to Shepis: Mercedes McNab, Rena Riffel Kate Orsini - who will be on site, as well as Jasmine Worth, Frankie Sin, Nicole Malgarini, and Brooke Lyons. The actors that round out this superb cast and will be on hand include Lance Henriksen, and Tony Todd.

So be the first to get movie memorabilia and rub elbows with the stars before the upcoming US theatrical release.

“Dark Reel” was just signed by Spotlight Pictures to represent foreign distribution and will be at Cannes.
