Millis, MA, April 30, 2008 --(PR.com)-- The Right Position, Inc. has launched its new e-commerce website which provides adult products designed with couples in mind. After years of research, The Right Position is able to offer affordable sexual aids that provide enhanced pleasure and comfort, while allowing couples to alleviate back pain and try new sexual positions.

The Right Position Sex Pillow delivers on its name, providing the perfect positioning to enhance pleasure and reduce back strain during sex. The wedge-shaped pillow is molded in soft, supportive “closed cell” foam. This foam technology requires no cover and cleans easily with soap and water. The pillow comes complete with satin drawstring bag for easy storage. The Right Position also offers the Pleasure Wrap, a blanket made from a silky, furry fleece fabric with soft satin backing. It is the perfect complement to the Right Position Sex Pillow, and that's why The Right Position offers these two products together as the Pleasure Pack Combo, providing added savings.

The Right Position is currently developing more products to improve the sexual experience of the average couple. Through their website, they also plan to offer information to their customers about sexual positions that alleviate back and joint stress and increase comfort. The Right Position's number one objective is always to provide its customers with the best possible service and products that will improve their sexual experience.
