

Online Company Shoots on the Use of Sniper Ghillies

Casselberry, FL, May 14, 2008 --(PR.com)-- SniperGhillies.com not only offers a variety of sniper ghillies and hunting accessories—they also offer free information on selecting the right ghillie for the next big hunting trip.

SniperGhillies.com understands the complexity of the sniper ghillie, an invention that could be used for combat, hunting or even paintball games among sports fans. The company website immediately associates sniper ghillies with these different activities by posting pictures of binoculars, pocket knives, rifles and camouflage clothing. The company's selection of sniper ghillies is equally impressive.

Customers can choose from expensive sniper ghillies loaded with special features like insulation and lightweight material, to cheap ghillie tops or headpieces for minimal coverage. While the most expensive complete ghillie suits can sell from $100.00 to $200.00, some affordable ghillie tops can be priced less than $30.00. The company also sells kits for hunters to create their own ghillie suits.

The history of the ghillie suit is quite a story, and it's one of many articles that SniperGhillies.com offers to ghillie enthusiasts along with related themes on ghillie laws, creating a new ghillie suit and how to effectively use these hunting aids. SniperGhillies.com also highlights instructional videos on the advantages of ghillie suits, showing footage of people moving through different landscapes while wearing these specially constructed camouflage outfits.

The company markets its ghillie suits to a variety of companies and organizations, including military and law enforcement, who require ghillie suits for special operations, hunters hoping to even the odds against wild game and paintballers intent on outperforming their competition. SniperGhillies.com also offers 30 day billing terms for approved businesses such as government agencies, public and parochial schools as well as colleges and universities.

SniperGhillies.com states that since its online restructuring, its wide range of ghillie suits have been selling "remarkably" (over one thousand from October 2007 to the new year) and that there have been no returns reported. Ghillie suits may look like twigs, dirt and moss at first glance, and that's exactly the purpose. Whether for victory, gaming or for war, ghillie suits are a hunter's means of survival.

About SniperGhillies.com: ECT, Inc. started in 1996 selling business products. Its first website appeared in 1999 and the company peaked in 2007 winning over 22,000 customers. In October of 2007, the business products division was replaced with ghillie suits and other products related to game hunting, combat and paintball activities. The company's management team has over 55 years of experience in website marketing and looks forward to the growth of SniperGhillies.com.
