

Buyelect is the Latest Source for Essential Gadgets

A newly launched e-commerce website aims to provide its customers with the latest digital cameras, camcorders, and accessories.

New York, NY, May 30, 2008 --(PR.com)-- A company that sells consumer technology must constantly update their website in order to offer the latest products. Powerful electronics are constantly being released and it is a challenge to weed out the inefficient models. Many e-commerce sites will simply list the latest released and deliver to their customers unsatisfactory products. Buyelect takes a strong stance against this practice and ensures that the products it offers are highly rated.

To celebrate the launching of their website, Buyelect is offering a few very special promotions on their most popular products.

The Olympus SP-500 Ultra Zoom for $349.99 is the culmination of Olympus's best technologies. The Wide conversion Lens ensures that the stays in the photo by decreasing the magnification. A choice of 27 different shooting modes allows the user to select the best setting for the situation. The 10X optical zoom allow the user to take pictures from a far distance. Finally the large 2.5 inch LCD lets you view the footage you've taken in playback mode.

The Pharos PDR140a Drive 140 GPS Navigation System for $249.99 is a great opportunity to pick up Pharos's most popular GPS system. There's nothing more infuriating than getting lost due to outdated directions. With this navigation system and its integrated hands-free calling system via Bluetooth true driving freedom is finally available. Some great features include a 4 inch color touch screen display, a slim design for easy storage, and a 2 Gigabyte SD card that comes preloaded with U.S. and Canadian maps.

Please visit www.buyelect.com for the latest digital camera, camcorder, and computer accessories.
