

Actor & New Hip Hop Sensation "CEL-LOW" is Giving Back

Former Louisiana native and now Tyler, Texas resident Marcello Jones is giving back to his home town and the entire Southern & Midwest region and abroad. "CEL-LOW" recently signed with the Don Alesante' Music Group & Fashions LLC brand recognized as DAMG, located in West Allis, Wisconsin which is headed by both Mrs. Shannon L. Chestnut and her husband Mr. Dante T. Chestnut Sr.

New York, NY, June 14, 2008 --(PR.com)-- Marcello Jones, A.K.A. "Cel-Low", is a 20-year old actor who has acted in numerous movie roles along with A-list actors such as Forrest Whitaker, Samuel L. Jackson, Bow Wow, Jackie Long, and Sharon Stone, just to name a few. As a model, producer, and solo recording artist, "Cel-Low" is making giving back to his community a priority after having to move from his hometown of New Orleans, Louisiana.

From sales of his soon to be released hot new single, "Hip Hop is Still Alive"...hitting airwaves globally, along with his new label mates, "Cel-Low" is supporting the much needed non-profit organization The CHILL Program, where the mission is to help prevent violence in urban and suburban communities, and find a cure for heart disease, pancreatic and breast cancer.

"Cel-Low", along with R&B Superstar "Sean G", DAMG/Universal Recording Artist "G.A"., Comedian "Damo The Great", and identical twin brothers Craig and Christopher Reeves (some call them Supermen) who head the DAMG Production Team. These phenomenal producers are skilled in producing music for all genres. They are all donating from their projects to help schools across the country.

As a team, their mission is to help strengthen enrollment and education in schools across the country, with brand new innovative ideas and incentives to help parents, teachers, and counselors capture the attention of at risk teens and youth in foster homes. We will keep their focus and attention on getting good grades, staying in school and clear from drugs, gangs, and prison. DAMG has new innovative ways of enhancing sports, music, and failing liberal arts programs across the country, through positive outlets and events involving entertainment and liberal arts.

For booking information or appearances please call DAMG offices directly at 1-414-607-0157.
