

Firearm Security Racks Inc. Introduces Two New Products to Its Patented Line of Locking Gun Racks

Inventor Adds Two New Products to His Line of Wall Mounted Locking Gun Racks to Deter Gun Theft and Help Protect Children From Loosely Stored Guns in Homes, etc.

Tyler, TX, July 10, 2008 --(PR.com)-- Statistics show that 150,000 guns are stolen each year in house burglaries and approximately 500 children die each year from unintentional gunshot wounds according to the Centers for Disease Control and the Census Bureau.

Don Graham-inventor of the 'Gun Cuff', patented wall mounted locking gun racks, has added two new products to his line of locking gun racks in an effort to protect guns from being stolen and to protect children from unsecured guns that are normally stored loosely under beds or in home closets etc. According to the FBI, a home burglary occurs somewhere in the United States every 15.4 seconds.

In 1996, Mr. Graham was fortunate to be issued a patent as well as the trademark Gun Cuff on two types of wall mounted locking gun racks, one that will hold up to 9 rifles and shotguns which (as of this date) retails for $79.95 and a handgun rack that will hold up to 3 pistols that retails for $49.95. Recently he has added two more types of gun racks to his product line.

The first new product is a 3-gun locking wall gun rack for gun owners having just a few firearms. Similar to the 9-gun rifle and shotgun rack, it uses very minimum wall space for mounting and will hold up to 3 rifles and shotguns which sells for $49.95.

The second new product is a wall mounted locking gun case rack (retail price $39.95) for locking away those hard-sided gun carrying cases with gun inside them which are normally stored unprotected underneath beds, in closets, etc. making it susceptible to thieves and children.

Previous sales of Mr. Graham's line of locking gun racks have totaled almost ½ million dollars to date and have been sold all over the world with retail customers ranging from homeowners, law enforcement agencies, a top U.S. Security Agency to different branches of the U.S. Military. They have also been purchased to appear in the set design of an upcoming Hollywood movie to be released in early 2009. These gun racks can only be purchased through Firearm Security Racks Inc. website.

Firearm Security Racks Inc. is a small company, individually owned and operated by Don Graham and the only supplier of these gun racks.
