

HHT Enhances Hunter Safety with New Patented Tools

New to manufacturing hunting tools but not new to hunting. Partners use 100 plus years of experience to design unique products.

North Tonawanda, NY, July 15, 2008 --(PR.com)-- Gtool should be standard practice in Hunter Safety Training.

Hunters Help Technologies, Inc has begun production of the first in its line of patented Big Game Field Dressing Safety Tools. The gtool or “gut tool” offers hunters a safer and more efficient way of removing the entrails while adding protection to the hunter's fingers and guarding against intestinal damage which in turn, protects the hunter's prized meat. Made of tough ABS/PC plastic, the gtool is designed to be used with any sharp knife and is packaged stand-alone or available packaged as a kit with a quality fold-lock stainless steel knife and a custom sheath to hold both. HHT tools are safety orange, by design, to make them easy to find in the field. A “how to” video is available for viewing on line at www.huntershelp.com.

New to the Big Game Hunting Products Industry, but not new to Hunting
Though Hunters Help Technologies, Inc is a new company, the principals are not new to hunting. The three owners have over 100 years of combined Engineering and Manufacturing experience between them. They are business partners and they are also hunting partners with the same number of combined years of hunting experience. That experience is designed into every product and the best is yet to come. HHT has several more products in various stages of design, development, and testing.

Founded in 2006, HHT is dedicated to bringing the newest and most useful tools to the sport they love. By focusing on patented technologies centered on safety and convenience, HHT is and will be “The Hunting Tool Experts.”
