

New Website Offers Peer to Peer Support for Wahms (Work at Home Moms) in Dallas, TX

Why DallasWahms.com? There are hundreds, if not thousands, of websites and message boards for work at home moms, so why start another?

Dallas, TX July 17, 2007 --(PR.com)-- Tiffany Weidman, co-owner of Dallaswahms.com, had the wonderful idea of starting this website specifically for work at home moms in the Dallas-Fort Worth area, so that members who want to meet in person would find the "friends they haven't met yet" within an easy distance for get togethers. They know that WAHMS are sometimes very isolated from the outside world. You need a place to share the triumphs and frustrations of being a WAHM, and you need to socialize with your peer group.

"We also feel that an area specific website provides an opportunity for us to support each others businesses and do business with a local whenever possible, rather than someone in another part of the country or world," said Ms. Weidman.

Their goal is to provide a place where work at home moms can network in person and online, learn and share all about working at home and managing family life too. A place we can grow as individuals, as a group and as women in business.
