Owings Mills, MD, August 11, 2020 --(PR.com)-- A Daringly Bold New Book on Purposeful Living

The book, "That's Not His Fault: A Down to Earth Approach for Purposeful Living" uses several real life experiences by real people and biblical scenarios to expand upon, and analyze strategies by which we can avoid many of life’s pitfalls that prevent people from living up to both divine expectations and their own expectations and from having a goal oriented Christian living.

This book talks about how to deal with laziness, procrastination, negative attitudes, unfriendly friends, inability to take responsibility for actions, tithing, curses, hearing the voice of God, being a master over your words, hard work and diligence, and how these affect our daily lives and existence on the earth.

Dr. Ademola Borode writes to let us see from a biblical point of view how we must take responsibility for our actions and for some of the problems in our lives, instead of casting the blame on others or the Devil as most people usually do. This is because we are the ones who must face and answer for the repercussions of things we do before God and Man.
