"Jeff Adams has no intention of meeting anyone and certainly no plans to marry," writes Malone. "He is entirely focused on building his promising gardening business. Eve Champlain works in a very lucrative and secretive technology security business. Jeff and Eve meet while attending two friends' wedding. They feel an instant attraction for each other. It felt as if they were supposed to meet in this way. The unforeseen attraction resulted in an unexpected pregnancy. Jeff intends to do the right thing and ask Eve to marry him. Several hitches occur as the couple work toward finding a way to make their relationship grow. Afraid to admit that their attraction has developed into a loving and long-lasting commitment, the couple depend on their faith and realize the blessing given to them as they encounter bumps in the road to finding their happiness."
